Most of all – it genuinely is risk-free. We are dedicated to supporting the dive distribution chain and WANT you to make your commission.

A Word From Our General Manager

General Manager: Krishna Vermeulen

Raja Ampat Tourism continues to make conservation efforts to remain a priority tourist destination. One of the efforts made recently is by placing 2,630 units of tetrapod-type breakwaters on Fani Island. Fani Island is the outermost island in the Pacific Ocean, with enormous potential for abrasion. Unlike other parts of Indonesia, the weather in Raja Ampat is relatively stable all year round; however, there are seasonal patterns, including the windy season. In this period, the usually calm can get rough due to a southerly wind.

MAD TEAM

Krishna Vermeulen, our General Manager, is excited to welcome all divers to Raja Ampat.

Divernet

Local Guide to Raja Ampat Dive Sites – BUMPHEAD PARROT FISH

Divernet

While swimming through a shallow reef or slope, you will suddenly see a large shadow above or in the distance. While many will immediately think of an approaching shark when the shape becomes clear, you realise that this is no shark but rather the Green Bumphead Parrotfish.

Local Guide to Raja Ampat Dive Sites – MELISSA'S GARDEN

Divernet

Melissa's Garden will often feature as one of the top dive sites on lists and recommendations when diving in Raja Ampat. Two unremarkable pinnacles extend from the waterline. However, nothing suggests that below the surface lies one of the world's best and most magical dive sites.

Dive Against Debris

Divernet

In the spirit of doing things differently, we committed to submitting monthly data to Project Aware's campaign – Dive Against Debris database, to enhance the underwater insights into a problem that remains out of sight for most of the public.

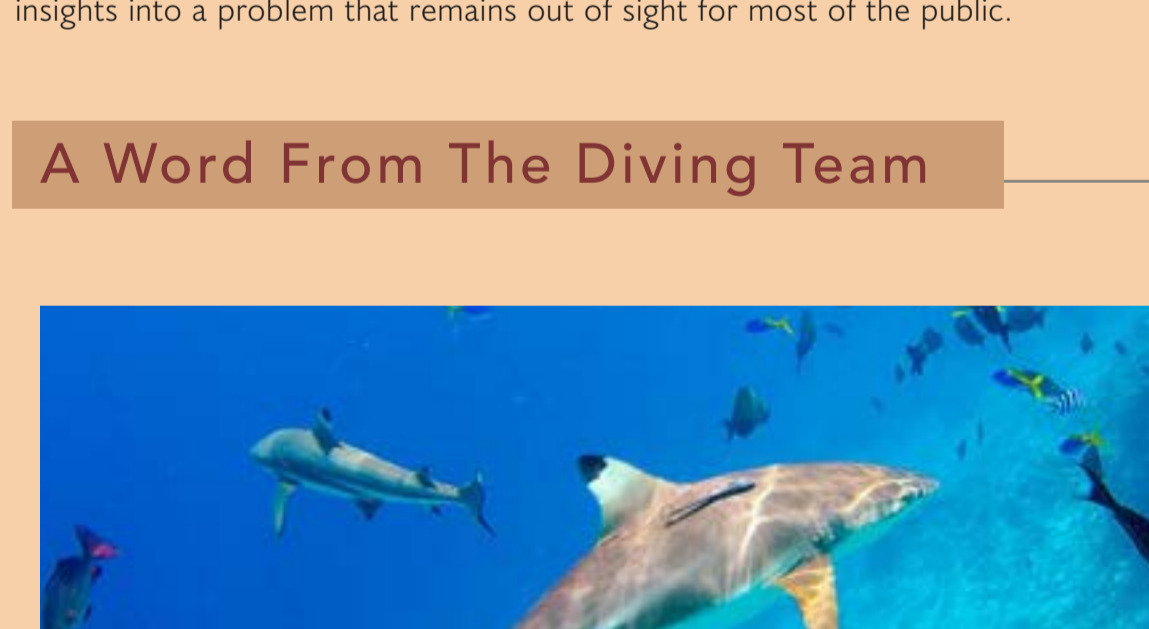

Raja Ampat Land-Based Diving

Divernet

For divers, land-based diving is the best to experience dive sites in the best possible conditions. Decisions can be made daily based on the tides and other weather conditions to visit the dive site best suited for the day.
